I, Octavio Hingle-Webster, declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the United States that this statement is true and correct.

I make the following statement based on personal knowledge:

I am 21 years old.

The protestors were on the side of the road. Most were out of the road. Some were in the street. The protestors were on the woman’s property when police charged us. I was linked up with four women, and police pulled us apart.

We were given a brief warning to disperse but there was nowhere to disperse. We were taken to the jail.
One man got a concussion. Another got a twisted ankle. The police had their batons out. One police officer came into the yard with a huge gun. There was a man in a SWAT tank who gave an obscene gesture.

They brought us to a police station and gave us our charges. My charge was resisting arrest but I was not resisting because I was on the ground.

The people whose property we were on gave us permission.
